

Working with API's

When I started out this challenge I had never worked with an API before. So naturally I had to get my hands (and mind) dirty to learn how everything works.

I watched a couple tutorials and read a few articles where they walk you through the process each with different frameworks (React, Next, Vue and Angular). I ended up going with a Vue tutorial. Here is a reference link to their codepen after completion.

My project is hosted on Netlify coming from my Github.

You will be able to find Pickle Rick or Mr.Poopyhole by using the search box on the left of the site.

Conclusion

As I was doing my research, learning and understanding how it works, I realised I still have a lot to learn. However, now I feel good that what was foreign to me in the beginning of the semester was starting to become clearer and make a bit more sense.
